COURSE DESCRIPTION

The middle school art program is organized around the three artistic processes of creating, presenting, and responding. In addition, the program emphasizes how art and design can drive innovation in the same way SC, technology, engineering, and MA do. Throughout the courses, students use various media and techniques to construct projects, collaborate with peers, and critique their own work as well as the work of OT artists.

In Semester B, students consider the preservation and protection of art. They then explore how international, national, and local art influences ideas, actions, cultures, and environments. Using this information, students build their own ideas of the role art plays in their lives.
